SALES AND SERVICE

Digital Modules are sold through four company sales offices in principal computer market areas and by two manufacturer's representatives covering the Southwest and the Northwest. Personnel at all nine locations are well qualified to advise on the selection of modules for a wide range of applications.

In addition, there are factory-trained applications engineers at all four Digital offices who can assist with more complicated design and utilization problems. If you would like to talk with one of these engineers, just fill in and mail one of the enclosed postpaid reply cards or contact the nearest office listed below.
